Dear Parishioners...

These are bad times for hope. The pandemic, the wars, the energy crises, the rise in the cost of living, have greatly influenced and continue to influence more and more our state of mind, our ability to resist, our courage to face challenges. We feel that the problems are ours, but the solutions are out of our hands. Today, the person with encouragement and hope is considered delusional.

But the human being needs to live in hope. As his life is not made at birth, we have to seriously consider a life project. One that leads us not only to our financial success, but to the development of our potential and above all, to respond to what God intended for each when He decided to bring us into the world. Without a horizon of hope, we live as vagabonds, oppressed by the circumstances. I am not truly living life when everything "what happens" affects me. Nor when my decisions do not determine the course of my life; when I am not the protagonist, but a puppet.

The readings of this Sunday's liturgy show us the goal of our hope, its paths, its guarantee criteria: Jesus, in the Gospel, assures us that hope is possible because we have the goal guaranteed, not because of our merits or effort, but out of pure love of God for us: "Fear not, little flock; for your Father has seen fit to give you his Kingdom." A Kingdom that is Himself. A Kingdom where others, our brothers, are a great treasure; they are treasures that do not spoil. The goal of our life, to reach the Father in communion with the brothers, is something that depends of God's grace and not on luck. But this is not a lazy wait, with arms crossed. It is not about isolating yourself in an artificial paradise of pious fantasies. It is an active waiting: "Blessed are the servants whom his master, upon arrival, finds awake, taking care of the others, according to their needs, and not according to our criteria.

DID YOU KNOW?

Ways children go missing

According to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children, there are a few significant ways that children go missing. Nearly half of all families with autistic children have reported that their children wander and have gone missing. Other ways include abduction, either by a stranger or family members, and child sex trafficking. Parents need to be aware of warning signs and know how to take action. For information, request a copy of the VIRTUS® article, "Ways Children Go Missing," at lacatholics.org/did-you-know/.

Estimada Tia Tota:

Corren malos tiempos para la esperanza. La pandemia, las guerras, las crisis de la energía, el alza del coste de la vida, han influido mucho y siguen influyendo más y más en nuestro estado de ánimo, en nuestra capacidad de resistencia, en nuestro valor para afrontar los retos. Sentimos que los problemas son nuestros, pero las soluciones escapan de nuestras manos. En nuestro hoy, la persona con ánimo y esperanza es considerada ilusa.

Pero el ser humano necesita vivir esperanzado. Como su vida no está hecha al nacer, tendrá que plantearse seriamente un proyecto de vida. Uno que le lleve no sólo a hacer dinero, sino al desarrollo de sus potencialidades y sobretodo, a responder lo que Dios pensó para él/ell al traerle al mundo. Sin horizonte de esperanza, vivimos vagabundos, oprimidos por lo circunstancial. No vivo mi vida cuando me afecta todo "lo que pasa" y no son mis decisiones lo que determina el curso de mi vida. Entonces no soy protagonista, sino marioneta del azar, de la suerte, de los demás...

Las lecturas de la liturgia de este domingo nos muestran la meta de nuestra esperanza, sus caminos, sus criterios de garantía: Jesús, en el evangelio, nos asegura que es posible la esperanza porque tenemos garantizada la meta, no por nuestros méritos o esfuerzo, sino por puro amor de Dios por nosotros: "No temas, pequeño rebaño; porque vuestro Padre ha tenido a bien daros su Reino". Un Reino que es Él mismo. Un Reino en donde los demás, nuestros hermanos, son un gran tesoro; son talegas que no se echan a perder. La meta de nuestra vida, llegar al Padre en comunión con los hermanos, no es algo que depende de la suerte, sino de nuestro esfuerzo en usar la gracia de Dios. No se trata de un esperar perezoso, con los brazos cruzados. No se trata de aislarse en un paraíso artificial de fantasías piadosas. Dichosos los criados a quienes su señor, al llegar, los encuentre en vela cuidando al otro, según sus necesidades, y no según nuestro capricho.

Beginning Experience of Los Angeles
